business unusual

Step "outside the box" for your next event. Shake things up. Feel the creative side of you break free as you let down your guard and let the laughter take over, even if it's just for a few hours.

At the Improv, our environment lends itself to letting go and freeing minds from their daily expectations. Instead of the "same old, same old" approach to your event, dare to do something different ~ with all the services you need to make your occasion successful, and then some.

it's a great place to meet
